

New SIC Resources Available Online Now

The SIC staff has developed a series of useful toolkits and materials to help local SICs in their work within their school communities and they're all available online now. The new SIC handbook, This is Your SIC – A Handbook for Effectiveness, is a completely revised publication offering not only statutory requirements but many helpful hints and examples for SICs. Is your SIC revising its local bylaws? The new Bylaws Toolkit can assist you with information and suggestions to make your bylaws more effective. Does your SIC need some assistance in identifying projects for its work this year? A new SIC Activities Resource Library is available for download with dozens of project examples from Riley Award honorees in the last decade. Earlier this school year, a new SIC Elections Toolkit was posted online to help local SICs with this annual process. (If you didn't refer to this toolkit during your elections this year, please consider it for next year!) All of these resources (with more to come on such topic areas as Effective SIC Meetings, Developing the SIC Report to the Parents, SICs and Social Media, SICs and the Read to Succeed Act, and Applying for the Riley Award) are available online at <http://sic.sc.gov>.
